MARY L. KIMBALL

Mary Louise Kimball, the youngest child of Elizabeth Rolke and Charles H. Kimball, was born in Medina in the old home on East Washington street, July 27, 1872. There she lived until her father's death in 1915, after which she built a new house on the same street, and in it the last five years of her life were spent.

Her education was received in the public schools of this town. She was an excellent student, winning class honors because of her scholarship, and at her graduation in 1892, she was valedictorian.

Even before her high school course was completed she assisted her father, who was at that time postmaster in the Medina postoffice, and immediately after her graduation she received an appointment as postal clerk. This position she filled most conscientiously and efficiently for nearly thirty years. Her last day's work at the postoffice was on June 25th, when she first began to suffer from the illness which, nineteen days later, caused her death, July 14th, 1921.

All her life she was a faithful member of the Medina St. Paul's Episcopal church. She was baptized there in infancy and confirmed in early girlhood. Always regular in attendance, she gladly helped in all the church activities, and no member will be more sadly missed by the congregation.

She was loyal, not only to her church, but to the town of Medina, where her entire life was spent. Her parents were among the first settlers, and because of her unusually retentive memory and her interest in the old days, she was an authority upon its early history, and the wide acquaintance given her by her work at the postoffice kept her in touch with its present activities and development.

Because of her loyalty to her friends and her town, and her courageous and cheerful disposition, not only her immediate family but the entire community has suffered a heavy loss by the sudden death of Mary Kimball.

She is survived by her sister, Addie Kimball Byam, her nieces, Elizabeth and Frances Mawthorne, and many other relatives and friends.

On First Day of Chautauqua

Beatrice Baughman. Miriam Hoover.

THE Misses Baughman and Hoover alone could entertain a Chautauqua audience most delightfully. It is the purpose of the Redpath management, however, to present them on Chautauqua's opening day with four other talented young women known as the Euterpean Artists. The instrumentation will include not only the saxophone and first violin, but also the cello, piano, cornet and second violin. Miss Baughman, in addition to her ability as saxophonist and pianist, is a comedy reader of unusual attainments. Her pianologs, whether humorous or serious, are great favorites with Chautauqua audiences.

Chautauqua furnishes the finest and most elevating recreation and high class entertainment that is to be found.—L. W. Barton, Bradford, Pa.
